

Low Cost Flights

Air Berlin flies to the most popular holiday destinations on the Mediterranean coast, in the Canary Islands and in North Africa as well as major European cities.

Website: www.airberlin.com Choose a cheap flight with Europe's leading low cost airline - 183 routes across 57 key European airports.

Website: www.easyjet.com Germanwings GmbH is a wholly owned subsidiary of Eurowings Luftverkehr AG. After Köln Bonn Airport, Stuttgart-Echterdingen has now also been a home airport for Germanwings since August 2003. Germanwings are currently flying 14 Airbus 319 or 320 airplanes to a total of 34 destinations throughout Europe.

Website: www.germanwings.com Ryanair now has 11 bases and 161 routes that cover 87 destinations across 17 European countries.

Website: www.ryanair.com The leading low cost low fare airline in Central Europe - opens up the new Europe for you! Based at the airports of Budapest, Warsaw, Krakow and Vienna-Bratislava, SkyEurope operates a fleet of 13 aircraft on a network of 19 destinations in the United Kingdom, France, Croatia, Germany, Poland, the Netherlands, Spain, Switzerland, Italy, Hungary, the Czech Republic and Slovakia. The SkyShuttle service links Bratislava airport with the neighbouring city of Vienna.

Website: www.skyeurope.com Wizz Air is a new European low-cost airline focusing on the markets of Central and Eastern Europe.

Website: www.wizzair.com